Willing to take good pics.Q: How to remove the last item from a list when it has been selected I have a listbox of items that are being pulled from a database. I have an action called select which pulls the selected row and I want to remove it from the list so that it is not displayed again on the next update. I also have a button called clear which removes everything from the list and the database. What I want to happen is that when the user selects a row the rows that were not selected are removed from the list and not added again. The code below is the action event and it does not remove the last item that has been selected. Private Sub select(ByVal row As ListViewItem) Dim db As New SqlConnection("Server=server;Database=db;Trusted_Connection=True") Dim cmd As New SqlCommand("select Routine, Days from Orders", db) Dim ds As New SqlDataAdapter(cmd) Dim dt As New DataTable ds.Fill(dt) Dim idList As New List(Of ListViewItem) For Each dr As DataRow In dt.Rows Dim rowList As New ListViewItem(dr("Routine").ToString) For Each a As DataColumn In dt.Columns If a.ColumnName = "Routine" Then rowList.SubItems.Add(a.ColumnName.ToString) End If Next idList.Add(rowList) Next ListView1.Items.Clear() ListView1.Items.AddRange(idList) End Sub 2d92ce491b
