Learn more about AutoUpdate+ at An interactive.exe file that can be used to test whether or not an application update is already installed on the client computer. The.exe file is called "Check for Updates.exe" and you can find it in your AutoUpdate+ folder (usually C:\Program Files\AutoUpdatePlus\Updates). To install the application you should follow the instructions in the.exe. --- If you have any problems or suggestions for the.exe or any other aspect of AutoUpdate+ then please contact me. Installation of the AutoUpdate+ updates will be initiated directly via the console since the AutoUpdate+ folder resides in the C:\Program Files\AutoUpdatePlus folder. Then the application should normally be launched automatically. If you still find it necessary to manually add the AutoUpdate+ updates to your application by copying them into a location in the C:\Program Files\AutoUpdatePlus folder, then follow the instructions: The AutoUpdate+ console (.exe and configuration files) will install updates when the AutoUpdate+ folder is mounted as a drive for the application. An alternative way of installing the updates is by hand by copying the files themselves into the AutoUpdate+ folder from the CD-ROM where the updates were downloaded. Addendum There are 4 options for storing AutoUpdate+ settings Note that the following options are only relevant for.exe files 1- Under the %APPDATA%\AutoUpdatePlus directory the.exe will look for a.suo file. If there is no.suo file in the application directory then it will look in
