This tutorial from Creativepro shows how to produce unique and realistic looking typography in Photoshop. Let's get started with Photoshop and learn how to produce interesting and unique effects. Adobe Photoshop CS4: Typography Tutorial Typography is an extremely useful tool. It's used in all industries such as marketing, graphic design, web design and even illustration. It's so important to get right that companies like Google even use image search to find the best looking headers that they can use. If you are looking to really make something look good, then Photoshop Typography is the tool for the job. So let's get started. Step 1: Create a New Photoshop Project Before we can start creating our effect, we need to create a new project in Photoshop. We'll be creating some text. Open Photoshop by going to the Adobe CS4 Photoshop Menu and click Open. If you want to edit a project in Photoshop, it must first be open for editing. So to start a new project, you must first open a project. When you open a project, Photoshop defaults to the Standard (single image) view. If you want to change the view to the Layout view, click the Window Menu and choose Window to View. Then choose Layout. If you would like to go back to the single image view, click Window to View again and choose Single Image. Then click OK. Adobe recommends that you create a new project every time you open Photoshop. Step 2: Size Down and Add a Background We're going to start by cropping down the document size and adding a background to the image. To do this, click the Crop Tool and select the crop down arrow from the pop-up menu. Make sure you have the Background selected and press the OK button. The Crop Tool will show the image in its new bounding box. Right click to bring up the Edit Menu and click Select None. Then press Enter to apply the crop. Step 3: Create a New Layers and Make the Text Transparent Next we'll add a new layer, which will help us keep things organized as we add different effects. Select File > New then click the + symbol. A Brush is, of course, simply a tool with which to create a stroke or path in an image. A Brush is generally somewhat rectangular, so that it can be used to create a painting-like effect. The Brush tools are located in the Toolbox toolbar on the left side of the application window. You use the Brush tool to apply a path to an image (as a brushstroke), or to select an area of the image and use it as a color fill. If you have only one brush in use, it shows in a red box, as shown in the previous figure, Click here. Click the brush thumbnail to open the Brush preset palette.

Choose the brush type you want to use: Photoshop (calligraphy) or Sketch (stencil). Click the left arrow (left mouse button) to display more brush presets. The Brush Options window (right) opens, where you can choose which brush feature(s) to use (stroke color, no stroke, etc). You can customize your brush by selecting from a standard set of brush features or by defining your own. The following figure shows the Brush Options window, which is where you customize the brush or set its parameters: You can use any of the tools shown in the Brush and Pen Toolbox to create a brush in Photoshop, ranging from simple freehand strokes to complex paths. You can also use the selection tools (lasso or polygon) to create your own. The Pen tool, the one with the magic wand icon shown in the previous figure, is probably the most familiar tool in Photoshop. It can be used to draw lines, rectangles, shapes, and a large number of other very useful tools. In earlier versions of Photoshop, you needed to click and drag to create a shape or path, but in Photoshop CS2 you can create a shape or path by clicking and holding a mouse button and moving the mouse while keeping it pressed, as shown in the previous figure. To create a line or shape, first click the Pen tool anywhere in the image and then click and drag to create the shape. To create a stroke, keep the Pen tool button down and drag. If you hold down the right mouse button, you can click any point of the shape or path to create a new path, as shown in the previous figure. If you have an image open, you can use the Pen tool to work on the background layer (Layer 1) instead of the layer currently selected. The

Q: How to prove the following equation? I am trying to prove the following equation using mathematical induction:

$2^n = 2 \cdot 2^{n-1} + 2^{n-2} + \dots + 2^0$  I know the base case is  $n=1$ , which is true:  $2^1 = 2 \cdot 1 = 2$  I want to prove the inductive step, which is:  $2^n = 2 \cdot 2^{n-1} + 2^{n-2} + \dots + 2^0$  But I don't know how to use mathematical induction to prove this equation. Can someone kindly help me out? A: Hint:  $n=1$  is true:

$2^1 = 2 = 2 \cdot 1 + 2^0$  Assume true for some  $n$ . Then

$2^{n+1} = 2^n \cdot 2 = 2(2^n) + 2^n$  and so

$2^{n+1} = 2 \cdot 2^n + 2^{n-1}$  A: I don't think it's possible to do induction on a summation. I tried to do it in the past and fell flat on my face. It may be a useful exercise to prove it in another way. If  $a_n = 2^{n-1}$  then  $2^{n-2} = 1 + a_{n+1}$  and

$2^{n+1} - 2 = 1 + a_{n+2}$ . Then  $2^{n-2} = 2^{n+1} - 2$
 $a_{n+2} = a_n + 2a_{n+1}$   $2^{n+1} - 2 = 2a_n + 2^{n+1}$
 $2(2^{n-2}) = 2a_n$  We can derive some properties of  $a_n$  from this:
 $a_1 = 2 - 1 = 1$   $a_2 = 1$   $a_n = a_{n-1} + 2a_{n-2}$   $a_3 = 2$
 $a_4 = 2 + 2 = 4$  And we already showed that
