(ワンピース映画) (English: One Piece - Surprise World) is a 2019 Japanese animated action and adventure film directed by Tatsuya Yoshihara and written by a staff of. A 2017 fan poll suggested that the film will be titled One Piece: The Final Voyage after the One Piece anime television series. The film marks the first of the third film series of the One Piece franchise. Net Balances $55.3 Billion in Cumulative Net Balances and Debit to Credit Ratio of 84.3% Through End of May RealtyTrac® (NYSE: RTY), the nation’s leading provider of digital real estate information, today released data showing that home values increased in approximately two-thirds of the U.S. counties included in its Total Market index through the end of May 2019, compared to the same period one year earlier. “The May data across 42 economic and housing indicators, all showing improvement, are consistent with a brighter economic future for the country,” said Jack Reagan, chief executive officer of RealtyTrac. “We have seen real estate value gains in nearly every region of the country, including some of the largest metro areas in the country. The strength of local real estate markets will play a key role in enabling much-needed economic growth in the current and future economic expansions.” RealtyTrac also released data on U.S. home prices, which are expected to reach a record high in 2020. Home values are projected to increase 5.1% year-over-year through May 2019, compared to a year earlier. The forecast provides an expected high point for home values across the U.S. during 2020. Home values in the U.S. saw significant gains in the past year in all 50 states and over a third of U.S. counties, and remained above their pre-recession levels in the majority of major metropolitan areas, according to the real estate information provider’s Total Market Index (TMI®). At the end of May 2019, the Total Market Score (TMS) for real estate markets nationwide stood at -
