06 November 2016 The author has released a Google chrome extension that removes the new Google toolbar from all Google Chrome browsers. You can download it here: HERE NEW DELHI: Only two months after the scrapping of the Rajya Sabha's MPLAD scam, the new BJP dispensation is in need of a similar crackdown. The Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) on Friday used two of its MPs, Tejasvi Surya and Jasbir Singh, to remove the Aam Admi Party (AAP) posters on Rajnagar flyover in Delhi. This is not for the first time that BJP MPs and MLAs have removed AAP posters. During the 2014 Lok Sabha polls, other BJP MPs and MLAs had confiscated AAP posters of former Delhi chief minister Arvind Kejriwal. The BJP is now ruling the Delhi government, with BJP MLA Manish Sisodia taking over as CM. Sisodia was the Home Minister in the AAP-led government. He has been accused of corruption charges and also faces a probe into charges of assaulting a public servant. While on the campaign trail, then Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal had said his government would remove all the BJP posters. This was dismissed by BJP leaders as mere rhetoric. But AAP is now making its move, with posters of the Prime Minister and Kejriwal visible on the flyover. The BJP and the AAP both have been accusing each other of doing 'conspiracies' to win the Delhi Assembly polls. The AAP is demanding that the BJP is doing a 'talk-fight' using Delhi government MLAs, Delhi MLAs, Delhi ministers, and Delhi MPs to win the polls. On August 20, the Madras High Court in the criminal cases against AAP MLA Somnath Bharti and former Delhi law minister Somnath Kapoor. On October 7, the Delhi High Court dismissed petitions challenging AAP MLA Alka Lamba's disqualification in connection with a criminal case filed over anti-national slogans at JNU. AAP is also facing a probe by the Income Tax Department on charges of allegedly under-reporting its income. The party has accused AAP MLA and former minister Sandeep Kumar of fudging his affidavits, misusing his power as Revenue Minister. b7e8fd5c8
