Nepal, India, India, Jan 26, 2014 Kandhamal Farm workers in the India-Nepal border area of the Indian state of Jharkhand have been struck by heavy rains since late last week and are expected to receive more heavy flooding over the weekend. At least 15 people have been killed and thousands of others left homeless in the region, which is close to the border with Nepal. Aid is being airlifted to places that have been cut off by landslides, and civil defence and police teams have worked with community leaders to identify houses that need to be evacuated. Uddhav Patnaik, the Home Minister of India's Odisha state, has promised relief will be sent to flood-hit areas by the army. Nepal's Home Ministry said it is trying to provide assistance to victims in its border areas. But Prime Minister Narendra Modi condemned the floods as an "unfortunate and unfortunate incident". The devastation came after weeks of heavy rainfall, particularly in the neighbouring districts of Khunti and Laxmipur in Jharkhand. Nepal's disaster management authority said there has been flooding in the Jubbarhatti area in the country's border district. Jharkhand is one of India's poorest states and has been under a state of emergency since December 2012. Last week's devastating floods and landslides cut off several routes in the state, most of them in the southern parts of Jharkhand's Gaya and Khunti districts, and badly disrupted the lives of an estimated 400,000 people. Jharkhand, a poor state in India's west with a large number of tribal communities, has a long history of political turmoil and unrest with Maoists militants.

Football is the most popular sport in the world. You have probably heard of FIFA and seen the cover of the annual soccer simulation. Featuring over 600 licensed clubs from around the globe and over 15,000 players, FIFA has earned the reputation as the sports game with the most realism and the fastest speed. Players are made up of authentic body types, made using the latest scans of the world's most celebrated athletes, and with over 400 animations carefully crafted by the team at VFX artist Imagitec, FIFA has the best-looking game in the business. Players' footsteps, the way they dribble the ball, the trajectory and speed of the ball, the way they win and lose the ball, the crowd and the referee, the challenges they face when they lose possession, the way they fight for the ball and score goals. These are all meticulously recreated. FIFA is the only game that lets players experience all this on the pitch. Full-body context-sensitive controls FIFA is the first sports game in history to seamlessly blend simulation with arcade, thanks to full-body context-sensitive controls with physics-based collision detection. Take a 10-foot dribble towards goal with your chest and face, see the defender move out of your way as you pass the ball to your teammate, experience the impact when the ball strikes the defender's chest, and know when to step and where to place your foot as you shoot at goal. This makes you feel like you have total control of your player, not the game. The game also features a new animation system, tackling and goal celebrations, goalkeepers and new contextual uses for the rules. Keep up with the most popular sports in the world with all these new features in FIFA.
