The "Model" has a name, email, phone, etc.. It also has other unique attributes like address or zip code, and externalId which is a link to some data outside of the data that is saved on the "Model" I have a form which is built off of a ModelForm class. I add additional attributes to the form from the Model instance, but want to store that data in the "ExternalId" field, but it doesn't seem that it's possible to link it to the "ExternalId" field as an attribute within the form. I don't want to have to switch between forms to manage the data. Is there any way to basically 'attribute' the field I want to update so that it automatically updates whenever I make a change?
